Without being a partisan in $85 to $100 per month. any sense, he never conceals his sentiments, and for the utterance of them in trains, steamboats, hotels and the streets,

What can be done to bring peace to the country, and quiet and prosperity to the South?

Military power may hold turbulent elements in check, and temporarily protect the few localities that need protec-tion. But that does not throw light up-on the mind, nor cultivate the germs of loyalty among a prejudiced and mis-guided people. The South has been ed-ucated into false theories and bitter pre-judices, which have borne their fruit in rebellion. The practical question of the present time is: How can those theories be changed, and these prejudices re-moved? How shall loyalty be brought to take root and grow vigorously on Southern soil?

Happily there is to this a very simple Happily there is to this a very and plain answer, viz: by sending to and plain answer, viz: by sending to the South a constant and healthful tide the South a constant and healthful tide the South a constant. The same instruof loyal emigration. The same instru-mentality that so rapidly creates loyal States in the West will strengthen loy-alty in the South. Without the little emigration that we have had the first national troubles.

Not a tithe of the lands in the South are really occupied. Let Northern men buy these lands and settle upon them and in nine cases out of ten they will have done much better for themselves than if they had gone to the far West. The South needs capital, manufactures, and all kinds of skilled labor. The North from her abundance can supply these wants, and mutual benefit will be

The vast mineral wealth of the South lies almost wholly undeveloped, white Northern men are besought to come with their skill and capital and take it at fabulously low prices. Wry will not our Northern people muster the courage to come and see for themselves the inviting field that is open before them The larger portion of the South is as quiet to-day as their own quiet homes in the North. And then they should remember that emigration carries safety

If our people would but dismiss their fears and go to the South as they now go to the West, they would meet a cordial welcome from thousands of Northern people already there, all the loyal Southern people, and a large share of those who took side with the rebellion; while the insignificant Klu Klux Klans would disappear like the mists of the morning.

Northern and Southern people living side by side, and mingling in business intercourse, would soon forget the pre-judices that now divide them. Reciprocal benefits will produce reciprocal good feeling. Free schools and loyal news-papers will follow Northern emigration as naturally as effect follows cause; and with such agencies can any one doubt that loyalty will have a healthful growth?

Many in the North are now standing aloof and waiting for the worst portions of the South to reform themselves. They might as well wait for the river to run by. Where evil counsels are left to an entire control of the field, they will continue to produce the r evil fruits. If they wish a different state of things they must help produce it.

Let the Loyal masses of the North dismiss their fears and take hold of this business with the vigor they now show in developing the resources of the West, and they will make fortunes for them-selves, the whole South will thank them, and our national troubles will be at an end. An immigration that brings with it capital, industry, loyalty, and free schools, is better than "an army with banners." If the National Government would spend in encouraging emigration and industrial enterprises in the South, a tithe of the money it is now compelled to spend in military restraint, we should have peace and prosperity in

The Pacific Railroad is carrying a line of safe travel across the continent. The industrial enterprise of the people will scon save the nation the vast expense of Indian wars. So emigration and industrial enterprises in the South would soon save the nation the expense of a standing army to take care of the Ku-Klux-Klans.

Is not this view of the subject worthy the consideration of our rulers and statesmen, and also of every loyal ed-itor? J. W. N.

Unsolicited Testimony.

From Rev. Francis Lobdell, Pastor of the South Congregational Church, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Connecticut.

"I consider it a duty which I owe to suffering humanity to bear testimony to the virtues of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I have used it—when I have had occasion for any remedy for coughs, colds or sore throat for many years, and never in a single instance has it failed to relieve and cure me. I have frequently been very hoarse on Saturday, and looked forward to the delivery of two sermons on the following day with sad misgivings, but by a liberal use of the Balsam my hoarseness has invariably been removed, and I have preached without difficulty. I commend it to my brethren in the ministry, I commend it to my brethren in the ministry, and to public speakers generally, as a certain remedy for the bronchial troubles to which we are peculiarly exposed."

WOMAN.

PEMALES, OWING TO THE PECULIAR and important relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization, and the offices they perform, are subject to many sufferings recedom from these contribute in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be bappy who are ill. Not only so, but no one of these various female complaints can long by suffered to run on without involving the general health of the individual, and ere long producing permanent sickness and premature decline. Nor is it pleasant to consult a physician for the relicf of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands simple specifies which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of those troublesoms complaints peculiar to the sex.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU, Hundreds 1847. har to the sex.

Helmold's Extract of Bucht.—Hundreds suffer on in science, and hundreds of others apply vainly to druggists and doctors, who either uncely tantalize them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do i justice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be produced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by laborious employment, unwholesome air and food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent chiadbirth, it is far oftener caused by direct irritation, applied to the mucous membrane of the vagina itself.

When reviewing the causes of these distressing complaints, it is most painful to contemplate the attendant evils consequent upon them. It is but simple justice to the subject to enumerate a few of the many additional causes which so largely affect the life, health, and happiness of woman in all classes of society, and which, consequently, affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The mania that exists for precocious education and marriage, causes the years that nature designed for corporeal development to be wasted and perverted in the restraints of dress, the early confinement of school, and especially in the unhealthy excitement of the ball-room. Thus, with the body half-clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverting in midnight revel the hours designed by nature for sleep and

In consequence of this early strain upon her system, unnecessary effort is required by the delicate votary to retain her situation in school at a later day, taus aggravating the evil. When one excitement is over, another in prospective keeps the mind morbidly sensitive to impression, while the now constant restraint of fashionable dress, absolutely forbidding the exercise indispensable to the attainment and retention of organic health and strength; the exposure to night air; the sudden change of temperature; the complete prostration produced by excessive dancing, must, of necessity, produce their legitimate effect. At last, an early marriage caps the climax of misery, and the unfortunate one, hitherto so utterly regardless of the plain dictates and remonstrances of her delicate nature, becomes an unwilling subject of medical treatbecomes an unwilling subject of medical treat-ment. This is but a truthful picture of the experience of thousands of our young women.

Long before the ability to exercise the functions of the generative organs, they require an education of their peculiar nervous system, com-posed of what is called the tissue, which is, in common with the female breast and lips, evid-ently under the control of mental enotions and ently under the control of mental enotions and associations at an early period of life; and, as we shall subsequently see, these emotions, when excessive lead, long before puberity, to habits which sapthe very life of their victims ere nature has self-completed their development.
